Message from the Guest Editors

The textile industry is one of the most important manufacturing industries in the world, generating a significant share of the economy on a global scale. Current scientific research in the field of textile technologies is focused on the search for new methods and processes, as well as raw materials, materials and different types of processing in the development of advanced, multifunctional textile and fashion products that could contribute to the gradual transformation of the entire field of textile technology towards a sustainable system aimed at developing innovative value-added products that are safe for the health of the end user and can be recycled at the end of their life.

The Special Issue aims to bring together and disseminate within the research community and the wider public scientific research papers and reviews that are the result of current research in innovative textile technologies based on approaches and concepts that contribute to sustainability.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

I encourage you to contribute a research or comprehensive review article for consideration for publication in Sustainability, an international Open Access journal which provides an advanced forum for research findings in areas related to sustainability and sustainable development. Sustainability publishes original research articles, review articles and communications. I am confident you will find the journal contributes to enhancing understanding of sustainability and fostering initiatives and applications of sustainability-based measures and activities.

Author Benefits

Open Access:— free for readers, with article processing charges \(APC\) paid by authors or their institutions.
